The past, present, and future collide in the hot summer of July 1996 as one man's desire to prevent repetition of history's mistakes pushes him to the very edge of reason. With the knowledge in his possession, he finally has the power to fulfill his vision and 'save' the human race. ...But should he? Or would it better serve humanity to bury that secret forever; to prevent that man from applying his knowledge-and his judgment-and changing the world as we know it?
