With her ex-boyfriend Luca kidnapped and the supernatural Council breathing down her neck, sixteen-year-old Lily Hughes finds herself en route to Venice to meet with the all-powerful Pontiffs of the Synod. Now that she's fully embraced her birthright as the fairy Princess she's better prepared to meet the challenges head on, but that doesn't stop her Nephilim best-friend Rowan from tagging along for the ride. When they arrive in Italy things get interesting as they race against the clock to rescue her first love while trying to prevent an all-out war. With Ex Nihilo Academy in chaos and evil hot on their heels they are forced to fly under the radar to accomplish their mission, that is, until a chance encounter with a demon changes Lily in ways that she can't easily explain. It quickly becomes clear that there's a crowd with Rowan insisting that they are made for each other while Luca runs hot and cold. As their patience wears thin it's not long before they give her an ultimatum -- choose now or lose them both -- prompting Lily to consider a life without the complications of love.
