~ A Taste ~ Luke had a plan. As soon as Alice walked in that door, he was going to pin her against it and kiss her. None of the chaste kisses she'd given him today—a real kiss, tongues and hot breath and hands digging and dragging all over each other. And then he wasn't going to stop or let go until he'd kissed her sensibilities right out of her pretty head. They couldn't just be friends. It wasn't possible. They could be friends and have sex, that was nice and doable.

They could be best friends as well as girlfriend and boyfriend—now that was perfectly sensible. What was wrong with that? The door opened. Luke took one step and then he was the one pinned against the door.
