Elloner is dead. The Puppeteer is lost. Jordy doesn't exist.

Elloner is dead. He wanders empty hallways in the afterlife, looking for a sign of hope, or even any destruction. But is he really in the afterlife? What awaits him at the end of this seemingly end labyrinth? The Puppeteer is a magician in a parallel universe, performing illusions that entertain many. After a visit from a fellow illusionist, he is pitched into a forest that goes on for miles. Somewhere in the distance he sees a figure, every night at 8PM. Who is this figure? Who is the puppeteer? Jordy is a young entrepreneur in our universe, and has invented a revolutionary video game in which players control a shadow who decides to fight his owner. Unknowingly, these stories all affect each other in ways great and small, and by the time we get to the end the stories are intertwined in a near impossible way. The first in a saga of astonishing tales, Puppets is a story that will blow your mind. What do readers have to say about Puppets? "Woah", Brenna Quinlivan
