Beyond the Leash -- a novel The arsenic in the drinking water in the entire province of Viterbo is over the level permitted by the European Union, enough to cause serious health problems, including lymphoma, a type of cancer. There are about 1,000 different kinds of lymphoma, divided into three groups. People in the first group can be cured. People in the second group, if they get the proper treatment, can expect to live almost as long as people who don't have lymphoma. People in the third group are going to die pretty quickly no matter what they do. Alice thinks she's in the third group. Maybe she is. But that doesn't justify what she did.
