When Claire Luna is kidnapped and taken to a remote island, her predictable life is torn to shreds. She thought she understood grief, loss and loneliness. But nothing prepared her for the island. Tucker Knight had his world turned upside down when he was a young teen. He'd known love, security and normality. But things changed, and somehow he lost his innocence along the way. Barrier takes you on a compelling, thrilling and sometimes brutal journey of Claire and Tucker, who in a bid to control their destiny, must learn about trust and submission. And also about love. The island is under the control of Dr. Stephen Bell, a scientist obsessed with the secrets of humanity through genetic engineering. Claire is part of his obsession, and quickly comprehends Bell's twisted intentions. She is forced to decide between submission and life-altering consequences. In her desperate attempt to survive, Claire surprises Bell and Tucker with her strength to fight. But, can she trust Tucker? Is he her enemy or her savior? Claire understands that to surrender means to survive, but can she endure? Tucker can't help but be enamored by the spirited and determined Claire, but to survive, he must face and overcome his haunting past. Up until Claire's arrival on the island, he had never thought himself capable, or deserving, but perhaps this was his chance to finally do the right thing.
